✂ A 15-second teaser was just shown on NBC for a new "Knight Rider [14]" TV series that will debut on NBC on Feb. 17, 2008. This is not to be confused with the 2010 "Knight Rider [15]" film that will hit theaters. The video is below.

While Will Arnett (NBC's "30 Rock," "Blades of Glory") was originally selected to voice KITT, a "carmaker conflict" led NBC to hire Val Kilmer instead, according to a Chicago Tribune article [16] on Feb. 11, 2008 that cited Variety. The following is from the official statement on this film:

"Knight Rider" stars Justin Bruening ("Cold Case," "All My Children"), Deanna Russo ("NCIS," "The Young and the Restless"), Sydney Tamiia Poitier ("Veronica Mars," "Grindhouse") and Bruce Davison ("Breach," "Close to Home").

David Hasselhoff (NBC's "America's Got Talent") – who starred in the popular lead role as Michael Knight for four seasons during the original series – returns as the same character in a special guest-star appearance.

The new KITT car will have some "Transformers"-like shape-shifting abilities [17]. The story's scientific explanation is "nanotechnology".
