I have improved the right-bar “currently in discussion” block displayed throughout the site so it now sorts by the last user comment instead of the discussion forum creation date.

In the previous scenario, you’d create a new forum and it’d go to the top of the list. The creation of new forums would then bump it down. When a comment was made, though, the thread didn’t get bumped back to the top to easily show you it was the last thread receiving a comment.

Now making a new comment on a thread will bump it to the top. You can also see all new system content activity using this handy-dandy tracker [3] (a MUST-USE tool for the site to keep up with what’s changing)!
