Here is the synopsis for “ParaNorman”:

From Focus Features and LAIKA – the companies behind the Academy Award-nominated animated feature “Coraline” – comes the comedy/thriller “ParaNorman”. Following “Coraline,” “ParaNorman” is the second stop-motion animated feature to be made at LAIKA in 3D. The film unifies the two stunning art forms to tell an all-new frightfully funny, magically emotional and hilariously spooky story.

“ParaNorman” is set in the town of Blithe Hollow. The town’s locals profit from mining its history as the site – 300 years ago – of a famous witch hunt. An 11-year-old named Norman Babcock (voiced by Kodi Smit-McPhee of “Let Me In” and “The Road”) spends much of his days appreciating the finer points of scary movies and studying ghost lore.

In fact, Norman is gifted with the ability to see and speak with the dead – including his beloved grandmother (Elaine Stritch). Most days, he prefers their company to that of his flustered father (Jeff Garlin), spacey mother (Leslie Mann) and deeply superficial older sister (Anna Kendrick). At middle school, Norman dodges bullying Alvin (Christopher Mintz-Plasse), confides in the impressionable Neil (Tucker Albrizzi) and tries to tune out his blowhard teacher Mrs. Henscher (Alex Borstein).

Norman is contacted by his odd uncle, Prenderghast (John Goodman), who reveals to him that a centuries-old witch’s curse is real and is about to come true. Only Norman will be able to stop it from going into overdrive and harming the townspeople.

Once a septet of zombies led by The Judge (Bernard Hill) rises from their graves, Norman finds himself caught in a wild race against time alongside Courtney, Alvin, Neil and Neil’s musclebound older brother (Casey Affleck) while Sheriff Hooper (Tempestt Bledsoe) chases them all. Even worse, the town is up in arms and taking up arms.
