Here is the synopsis for NBC's "Revolution":

What would you do without it all? In this epic adventure from J.J. Abrams' Bad Robot Productions and Eric Kripke ("Supernatural"), a family struggles to reunite in an American landscape where every single piece of technology – computers, planes, cars, phones and even lights – has mysteriously blacked out forever.

A drama with sweeping scope and intimate focus, "Revolution" is also about family – both the family you're born into and the family you choose. This is a swashbuckling journey of hope and rebirth seen through the eyes of one strong-willed young woman, Charlie Matheson (Tracy Spiridakos, "Being Human"), and her brother, Danny (Graham Rogers, "Memphis Beat").

When Danny is kidnapped by militia leaders for a darker purpose, Charlie must reconnect with her estranged uncle, Miles (Billy Burke, the "Twilight" movies), a former U.S. Marine living a reclusive life. Together, with a rogue band of survivors, they set out to rescue Danny, overthrow the militia and ultimately reestablish the United States of America.

All the while, they explore the enduring mystery of why the power failed and if – or how – it will ever return.

NBC's "Revolution" pilot premieres on Sept. 17, 2012 at 9 p.m. CST following "The Voice."
