CHICAGO – You should buy the third season of "Archer," just released on Blu-ray and DVD, if just for the season premiere, "The Man from Jupiter," featuring an absolutely amazing guest performance from Burt Reynolds. Actually, that is the fourth episode of this season as the three-part "Heart of Archness" aired three months earlier and kicks off this DVD. Whatever you call it, it's hysterical. In a crowded field that includes former titans like "Family Guy," "South Park," and "The Simpsons," "Archer" is the funniest animated show on TV.

Rating: 4.0/5.0

H. Jon Benjamin brilliantly voices spy Sterling Mallory Archer on his adventures with and without ISIS, the most notorious international spy agency in the world. "Archer" is consistently smart, perfectly paced, and damn funny with some of the best voice work in years from Benjamin, Aisha Tyler, Jessica Walter, Chris Parnell, Judy Greer, Amber Nash, and a revolving door of guest stars. It's a spy spoof but it's also just a funny comedy without the pop culture references, not unlike "The Office Meets 007." It's a workplace comedy and the workplace just happens to be that of a bunch of borderline-sociopathic super spies.
