CHICAGO – The cleanest Improvisation act took place at Chicago’s Navy Pier on August 25th, 2019. Former “Saturday Night Live” cast member Rachel Dratch & Friends headlined the Cottonelle Superior Clean County Fair for National Toilet Paper Day (8/26). Joe Arce of HollywoodChicago.com got the Exclusive Photos.

The Cottonelle Superior Clean Country Fair was bought to Chicago by Cottonelle bathroom tissue and the Amazon Treasure Truck, and was highlighted by “clean” improv shows by Dratch and her band of improv friends. This event also included a “Peachy Clean” Finger Paint Art demonstration, an Arcade Game row, an Upgraded Bathroom Art Gallery, The “Cleaning Ripples” Slide and (answering the age old question of over or under for a toilet paper roll) “How Do You Roll?” survey.

Rachel Susan Dratch was born in Massachusetts, attended the National Theater Institute in New York City, and graduated from Dartmouth in 1988. In the 1990s, she became a main stage cast member of The Second City in Chicago, alongside future SNL colleagues Adam McKay (eventual head writer) and Tina Fey. While in Chicago, Tina and Rachel launched “Dratch & Fey,” which also played at the Uptight Citizens Brigade Theatre in New York City. Rachel Dratch was with “Saturday Night Live” from 1999-2006, and has appeared in the films “Down with Love,” “I Now Pronounce You Chuck and Larry” and “My Life in Ruins.” She is best known for her SNL character, Debbie Downer, the eternally pessimistic deflating force at any gathering.
