Here is the synopsis for "Humpday":

It has been a decade since Ben (Mark Duplass) and Andrew (Joshua Leonard) were the bad boys of their college campus. Ben has settled down and found a job, wife and home. Andrew took the alternate route as a vagabond artist and has skipped the globe from Chiapas to Cambodia.

When Andrew shows up unannounced on Ben’s doorstep, they easily fall back into their old dynamic of macho one-upmanship. Late into the night at a wild party, the two find themselves locked in a mutual dare: to enter an amateur porn contest together.

But what kind of boundary-breaking, envelope-pushing porn can two straight dudes make? After the booze and “big talk” run out, only one idea remains: they will have sex together... on camera. It’s not gay; it’s beyond gay. It’s not porn; it’s art. But how exactly will it work? More important, who will tell Ben’s wife, Anna (Alycia Delmore)?

Writer and director Lynn Shelton – director of “My Effortless Brilliance” and recipient of the “Someone to Watch Award” at the 2009 Independent Spirit Awards – expertly mines the biggest ironies of the male ego to hilarious effect. “Humpday” is a buddy movie gone wild.
