Here is the "Motherhood" plot description:

From writer and director Katherine Dieckmann (the acclaimed filmmaker of "Diggers" and "A Good Baby") comes "Motherhood," which stars Uma Thurman, Anthony Edwards and Minnie Driver.

Shot entirely on location in New York's West Village, this comedy distills the dilemmas of the maternal state – marriage, work, self and not necessarily in that order – into the trials and tribulations of one pivotal day.

Equal parts Mrs. Dalloway and "Curb Your Enthusiasm," "Motherhood" forms a genre of one. No other movie has dedicated itself in quite this way to probing exactly what it takes to be a mother with both wry humor and an acute sense of authenticity.

"Motherhood," which is a humorous and poignant look at the daily challenges mothers everywhere face, is a hymn to the trials and joys of raising children and the necessity of not losing yourself in the process.

Uma Thurman strikes a smoldering pose for the HollywoodChicago.com lens as she walks the red carpet on Oct. 8, 2009 at the premiere of her new film "Motherhood" for the opening night of the 45th-annual Chicago International Film Festival. Uma Thurman was honored with a career achievement award.
